A comparison between a traditional Single Premium Deferred Annuity (SPDA) and the Master Builder SPDA after 10th Year

	SPDA*	Master Builder
Projected Accumulation Value after 10 Years	$156,783	$156,783
Enhanced Death Benefit Earnings after 10 years	+$0	+$26,327
Total A (Projected Accumulation Value + Enhanced Earnings Benefit)	$156,783	$183,110

Master Builder's Gain for Beneficiary Over Traditional SPDA ($157,346 – $139,181 = Gain)		$18,165

Enhanced Earnings Benefit Equals Additional 46% Gain

Equals 6.25% Annual Interest Per Year

Amount Still Greater than Traditional SPDA Before Taxes

*Traditional SPDA with same interest rate but no Enhanced Earnings Benefit or Living Benefit.

Living Benefits for You, the Annuity Owner: Paid at the end of 10 years. Benefit is equal to 1/2 of the $26,327 OR $13,164. Owner can annuitize for income ($156,783 + $13,164 = $169,947).

Interest rate is subject to change at each contract anniversary date. 3% minimum interest rate applies. Charts for illustrative purposes only. The Enhanced Earnings Benefit is not payable if owner dies before 5th contract anniversary. Under the Enhanced Earnings Benefit, partial withdrawals may reduce the benefit amount. When calculating the Enhanced Earnings Benefit after a partial withdrawal has been taken, the most recent interest credited will be withdrawn first. Change of ownership can affect the benefit paid at death. The Enhanced Earnings Benefit will be calculated on the age of the current owner at the time the benefit is payable. This piece should be used with the S7055 Agent Spec Sheet.
